Overview

Is China launching a new lithium project in Argentina?

Mariana project. (Image courtesy of International Lithium). China's Ganfeng Lithium has begun producing lithium at its Mariana project in northern Argentina, it said on Wednesday, kicking off one of several of its new lithium projects under way in the South American country.

What is Argentina's lithium potential?

A prime example of Argentina's lithium potential is Galan Lithium's (ASX:GLN) Hombre Muerto West (HMW) project. Located in the heart of Argentina's lithium-rich Salar del Hombre Muerto, this project exemplifies the high-grade, low-impurity brine that makes Argentine lithium so valuable. Key features of the HMW project include:.

How will solar energy be used in the Mariana project?

Solar energy will be used to power the plant in the salt flats, ensuring the project is fueled by renewable energy. The Mariana project will be exclusively supplied by power provided by an off-grid solar farm, producing 120 MW from solar panels with 288 MWp of battery storage.

Why is Argentina a good place to invest in lithium-ion batteries?

This region holds the key to meeting the surging demand for lithium-ion batteries that power EVs and store renewable energy. Argentina, with its vast salt flats, is particularly well-positioned to capitalise on this demand. This region's extensive salt flats are the result of ancient lakes that have evaporated over millions of years.
