

Base station communication equipment on the roof of the factory building

Overview

What is a rooftop Telecom Tower?

Rooftop telecom towers, often called rooftop cell towers or roof top antenna towers, are specialized structures installed on building rooftops to support antennas and equipment for wireless communication. Typically ranging from 3 to 30 meters in height, these towers use hot-dip galvanized steel (ASTM A123) for over 30 years of durability.

Who uses rooftop towers?

Rooftop Towers serve wireless carriers, cable companies, broadcast organizations, Wireless Internet Service Providers (WISPs), utility companies using remote monitoring systems, and public safety organizations requiring dedicated networks separate from commercial wireless traffic. What safety considerations apply to Rooftop Towers?

What is a rooftop cell site?

Rooftop cell sites, also known as rooftop telecommunication towers, are critical for delivering high-speed mobile and internet services in space-constrained urban environments.

What are antenna towers & how do they work?

These towers mount directly on buildings to reduce height requirements and overall costs. They accommodate various antenna loads for microwave, GSM, CDMA, and other telecommunication systems while providing flexible installation options including poles, guyed masts, and lattice configurations.
