

Distributed power generation of mobile base station equipment in Zimbabwe

Overview

Who owns Zimbabwe Power Station?

It is owned and operated by the national electricity company Zimbabwe Electricity Supply Authority. It was built in two stages and consists of 4 units of 120 MW each, 2 units of 220 MW each and 2 units of 300 MW each. Engineering Consultants, Merz & McLellan, were employed for the design and supervision of the construction of the power station.

What are Zimbabwe's energy projects?

The Government of Zimbabwe has prioritised energy projects as one of the key enablers to economic growth and development. The prioritised projects include new plants and the optimization of existing plants and are expected to add additional power to the grid as follows:.

Why does Zimbabwe import electricity from Zambia and Mozambique?

Zimbabwe currently imports electricity from Zambia and Mozambique to address the local production shortage. Zimbabwe's ongoing power crisis, growing demand for solar power, and an ideal climate for solar power generation represent a great opportunity for U.S. companies.

How much power does Zimbabwe import?

Currently power imports stand at around 400 MW. Industry and Commerce have struggled partly due to acute power shortages being experienced in the country. The Government of Zimbabwe has prioritised energy projects as one of the key enablers to economic growth and development.
