

Germany Hamburg lithium power energy storage project

Overview

Who developed the new battery storage projects in Germany?

The projects were developed by TotalEnergies affiliate Kyon Energy. Credit: JeanLucIcard/Shutterstock. TotalEnergies plans to invest €160m ($172.8m) in six new battery storage projects in Germany, totalling 221MW of capacity. The projects have been developed by TotalEnergies affiliate Kyon Energy.

Why does Germany need a large battery storage capacity?

This expansion ensures grid stability, enhances flexibility, and supports the energy transition. Germany's Federal Network Agency projects that large battery storage capacity will grow from 1 GW today to 24 GW by 2037, underscoring the high demand for storage projects.

Why is Germany a key market for battery storage in Europe?

Germany remains a key market for battery storage in Europe. The demand for energy storage solutions to manage fluctuations in renewable energy generation is accelerating. Projects like Wetzen are essential steps toward meeting this demand and advancing the decarbonisation of the economy.

Who owns 520 MW battery energy storage system in Waltrop?

Hamburg, June 25, 2025 Luxcara, a leading independent German asset manager for clean energy infrastructure projects, has acquired a 520 MW battery energy storage system (BESS) project in Waltrop, Germany. It will be constructed on an unused site that was formerly designed to develop a coal-fired power plant.
