Will electricity prices double in South Africa?

Former Eskom consultant Matthew Cruise expects electricity prices to double in South Africa over the next five years as the state power utility continues to struggle to keep the lights on. The consultant predicts that the price of electricity will double over the next five years, as will load shedding.

What is the average electricity bill in South Africa?

The average electricity bill in South Africa is around R2500 per month for a family of 4. This means that within the next 8 to 10 years the average electricity bill is going to be about R10 000 per month - if the price of electricity doubles every 4 to 5 years. That is, if Eskom's grid doesn't collapse in before then.

Will Eskom build more power stations?

Eskom have no real plans to build extra power stations, and the power stations they do have are falling into disrepair and suffering sabotage daily. How much do you trust Eskom with your future?
