

Solar panel roof rework

Overview

Can I restore my roof if I have solar installed?

You can absolutely restore your roof even if you already have solar installed. There are two options. Option 1 is to have the solar panels removed by an electrician and we will then carry out the roof restoration. This is a more costly option as this requires the services of an electrician to remove and reinstall the panels.

How do I schedule a solar roof installation?

Scheduling is crucial: Remove the panels first. This step is typically handled by your solar provider. Install the new roof. Ensure your roofing contractor works quickly and efficiently. Reinstall the panels. Do this as soon as the roof is finished to avoid exposure damage to brackets and wiring.

Can a solar installer replace a roof?

If your installer is no longer in business, find a licensed local solar professional who can handle disconnection and reinstallation safely. While any roofer can technically replace a roof, only some are experienced in working on homes with solar panels. Look for contractors who: Have prior experience with solar-related roofing projects.

Do solar panels need to be removed before reinstalling?

The panels must be carefully removed before work begins and then reinstalled after the new roof is completed. This process requires collaboration between roofing contractors and solar technicians. Before starting any work, schedule inspections for both your roof and your solar energy system.
