Overview

What is the difference between an and a?

That is not entirely accurate. "An" is used before a vowel sound, and "a" is used before a consonant sound. The word sound is important because consonants can create vowel sounds, and vowels can create consonant sounds. Therefore, the use of "an" or "a" is determined by the sound not the letter.

What does a/an mean?

"I love to sail over the water" (some specific body of water) or "I love to sail over water" (any water). "He spilled the milk all over the floor" (some specific milk, perhaps the milk you bought earlier that day) or "He spilled milk all over the floor" (any milk). "A/an" can be used only with count nouns.

How do you use the word 'the' in a sentence?

Each use of "the" refers to a specific noun known to both the speaker and listener. In a recent session, a learner practiced using "be going to" to talk about future plans. With support from their tutor, they built confidence expressing ideas naturally — all while discussing a real-life topic: travel.

What is an article in English?

Let's discover them! An article is a word that modifies a noun. If you are learning English online, there are two different types of articles: the definite article (the) and the indefinite article (a/an). In accord with the designations, the indefinite article is used when we speak about something for the first time, or something non-specific.
